BOY KILLS HIMSELF; HAD FORGED CHECK

Myrl H. Hoy, of Lauvertown, Found Dead in Buggy, at Peru.

ENTANGLED WITH GIRL

Visits Young Woman at State College Before Hiring Team at Centre Hall to Take Fatal Drive—Lips Were Burned By Carbolic Acid.

Haunted by fear of arrest for forging his brother's name to a check for $150, and dreading exposure of entanglement with a young girl, residing near State College, Myrl H. Hoy, 21 years old, of Lauvertown, shot and killed himself near Peru station, early last Friday morning. His lifeless body was found in a buggy, the horse, which had been hired from David Boozer, of Centre Hall, grazing aimlessly along the road.

Young Hoy was a son of Henry Hoy, who is employed at White Rock. Since early youth, when he was stricken with typhoid fever, he had been more or less queer. Until several weeks preceding his tragic death he resided at home. An expert pensman he was engaged in studying shorthand and a letter found on his clothing indicated that he expected to take a position in New York.

About four weeks ago young Hoy left home. The next heard of him was that he was working on the farm of John Stover, near Spring Mills. On last Thursday night he went to Centre Hall and hired a horse and buggy. From there he proceeded to State College. Whether he there met the young woman with whom he had become entangled is not known. That he feared arrest or bodily harm is suggested by the fact that when leaving Spring Mills he asked several companions, accompanying him to the station, to take a shot gun along.

Leaving State College Hoy drove to Lemont and from there along the back road to Peru. Alone in the buggy and the horse traveling in the darkness of the night he placed a 32-calibre revolver to his right temple and blew out his brains. The revolver was found lying between his feet in the buggy. The body was sitting almost upright, the head fallen slightly forward. One rein of the harness was broken. Otherwise there was nothing to indicate anything out of the ordinary.

District Attorney Runkle arrived on the scene shortly after the lifeless body of Hoy was found. Examination of the grounds revealed a partly filled bottle of carbolic acid lying nearby a pool of blood in the middle of the road. The poison had been purchased by Hoy at Braddock. His lips were slightly burned, indicating that he had first attempted to kill himself by means of the acid. The body was removed to the young man's home, and interment made on Sunday.

The unfortunate young man left behind no letters or other papers to explain his troubles. In the shoe of his right foot was found $100 in bills. In a pocket was 92 cents in change, while in another pocket was a gold watch belonging to his brother. The check forged by Hoy was drawn on the First National Bank, of Bellefonte.

NEW GLASS WORKS

Old Employees Trying to Raise Funds to Build Tank Plant on Thomas Estate.

If a canvass of the citizens of Bellefonte, now under way, meets with hoped-for success, a tank glass plant will be established on the Thomas estate, near the site of the old glass works. William Beezer and William Rider, as a committee of glass workers, are making a canvass of business men and others to learn if the necessary support may be had. If so, the plant will be established. Otherwise it will not.

The glass workers who are behind the movement propose a co-operative plan for the construction of the plant. It is proposed to raise the money by means of bonds, each employee being pledged to turn over a certain amount of his wages to pay seven percent interest on the bonds. According to Mr. Beezer it is the intention of the employees to eventually lift the bonds, which will sell for $50 and upward.

Contract Awarded.

The contract for wiring the remodeled Court House and jail was yesterday awarded to the Bellefonte Electric Co. for $1347. Bids were received for installing a complete electric equipment, but the contract was not awarded. The Bellefonte Electric Co. bid $3,447; the J. T. Buchanan Co., of Philadelphia, $3,393 and the United Construction Co., also of Philadelphia, $3,678.50.

HENRY W. SCHULTZ

Former Centre Countian Fatally Stricken While in Church.

Henry W. Schultz, who resided with his daughter, Mrs. E. S. Young, No. 336 East Bald Eagle Street, Lock Haven, was stricken with paralysis, while hearing the benediction read, in St. Luke's Reformed church, on Sunday evening, and died at his home at 6 o'clock Monday morning.

While the benediction was being read, Mr. Schultz was seen to get up, totter, and fall, his head striking the hardwood pew. He was quickly assisted home, but never regained consciousness.

Mr. Schultz was a former Centre Countian. Before he moved to Lock Haven, he resided at Livonia, where he followed the occupation of saw filer. He was 67 years old, a veteran of the Civil war and a regular attendant of St. Luke's Reformed church. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. E. S. Young, of Lock Haven, and one son, J. E. Schultz, of Los Angeles, California. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Margaret H. Medlar.

Mrs. Margaret H. Medlar, sister of the late Col. James P. Coburn, died, on Wednesday, of last week, at her home in Allentown, following an extended illness. The Allentewn "Chronicle News," noting the death of Mrs. Medlar said: "Her illness started at the time of the death of her brother, Colonel James P. Coburn, of Bellefonte. In her illness she received the ministrations and sympathy of many loving friends and their concern and anxiety helped her to bear up in her afflictions. She passed away peacefully leaving a memory of a beautiful life well spent. Mrs. Medlar was born in Aaronsburg, Centre county, June 6, 1843 and was a daughter of Dr. Charles and Margaret Coburn. Her father was a prominent physician of Centre county. She married Morgan F. Medlar, who for a number of years was prominent in financial and real estate circles of this city. His death occurred September 6, 1902. A daughter survives, Miss Jennie C. Medlar. Mrs. Medlar was a devout member of the First Presbyterian Church and by her work and example did much toward promoting its interests. A woman of broad culture, she very acceptably filled the position of Treasurer of the Woman's Literary Club for sixteen years."

Mrs. Clara B. Krider.

Mrs. Clara Blanche Krider, wife of the late Chilion Krider, died, Saturday evening, at 5.30 o'clock, at her home on Bishop Street, following a five weeks' illness of a complication of diseases. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Shank, of Allegheny Street, and was born 56 years ago, in WarriorsMark. She is survived by her parents, one daughter, Miss Emma Krider, of Bellefonte, and three sisters, Mrs. Frank E. Naginey, of Bellefonte; Mrs. George B. Brandon, of Honesdale, and Mrs. Edward C. Rowe, of Wellsville, Ohio. Mrs. Krider was a devoted mother and a consistent member of the Methodist church. The funeral was held Tuesday, at 2 o'clock. Rev. Wilcox conducted the services.

Mrs. Abram Fike.

Mrs. Katharine Fike, wife of Abram Fike, a well known resident of Philipsburg, died, Thursday, at the home of her nephew, James Fike, of Lock Lohmond. She was 72 years old and was the daughter of David Minich, of Madisonburg. She was married to Abram Fike, September 14, 1856, at Bellefonte. She is survived by three daughters and also one sister, Mrs. Jacob Booth, of Curwensville. The funeral services were held Saturday.

Mrs. Sarah M. Sterrett.

Mrs. Sarah M. Sterrett, of Washington, D. C., died, Friday morning about 2.30 o'clock, following a complication of infirmities. Mrs. Sterrett was born 91 years ago in Jacksonville, this county. She is survived by two children, Dr. James Sterrett and Miss Mary Sterrett, both of Washington. Interment was made, Saturday, at the Jacksonville cemetery, about 10 miles southeast of Bellefonte.

Mrs. Eliza J. Walker

Eliza J. Walker, widow of George Walker, a Civil War veteran, died, Tuesday morning, about 11.30 o'clock, following a year's illness. She was aged 62 years, and is survived by two children, Mrs. John Houtz, of Ardmore and William Walker, of Bellefonte. She was a member of the Methodist church.

John Kuhn.

John Kuhn, of Shingletown, died on last Thursday after an extended illness. He was 84 years of age, was born and raised in Harris towuship, and was widely known throughout Centre County.

SCHOOL LOAN WINS BY MAJORITY OF 112

Carries North and South But Loses West Ward By 4 Votes.

TOTAL WAS 308 TO 196

Light Vote Polled In All Three Wards—Friends of Loan Elated Over Result—Defeat Would Have Necessitated Heavy Increase in Tax.

The proposed $33,000 school loan won the day at the special election, on Tuesday, being approved by a vote of 308 to 196, or a majority of 112. The loan carried the North and South wards by comfortable margins, but lost in the West ward by four votes. The vote by wards follows:

Ward	For	Against
North	160	74
South	107	77
West	41	45
Total	308	196

Majority for loan 112

A light vote was polled for and against the loan in all three wards, many persons forgetting or not taking the trouble to go to the polls. The close result in the West ward was the only feature attending the tabulation of the returns, it being pretty well settled late in the afternoon that the loan had carried the day. Friends of the loan in the West ward were keenly disappointed with the result there, although pleased that the majority against it was so slight.

Members of the school board were more than happy when the returns gave a clear majority for the loan. Had the measure gone down to defeat it would have necessitated an immediate and heavy increase in the school tax to pay for the new building. The directors appreciated that such a course on their part would have been entirely unpopular and that it nevertheless would have been unavoidable. The victory for the loan relieves the board from this embarrassing situation.

Although the loan was voted on Tuesday work on the new school building, at Allegheny and Linn Streets, has been under way for some time. It will now be rushed through to completion, the directors believing that the building will be ready for occupancy by Thanksgiving day. The public schools will open, September 6, the pupils attending the old stone school building attending the Brick building, on Bishop Street. To make this possible one half of all the pupils, not including those attending the High School and the mid-way school, will attend from 8.30 until noon, and the other half from one until 4.30 o'clock, in the afternoon.

William Henry Harpster.

William Henry Harpster, of Moshannon, died suddenly, last Friday morning, of heart failure. He was working on the roads at the time he was stricken. His death was so sudden that the shovel, which he had been using, remained tightly clinched in his hands. For over an hour his death grip continued, and then the muscles in his hand slowly relaxed. Mr. Harpster was 68 years old and is survived by a wife and one son. He was a member of the Methodist church. The funeral was held Sunday.

Robert Malone.

Robert Malone Jr., the five months' old son, of Robert Malone, of Snow Shoe, died about 9 o'clock, Monday evening, after a severe attack of cholera infantum. The funeral services were conducted yesterday, by Rev. Mr. Ruch, of the Snow Shoe Methodist church. Interment was made at Milesburg.

Ruth Loretta Grubb.

Ruth Loretta Grubb, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Grubb, of Half Moon Hill, died Saturday morning, about 9 o'clock, following an illness of two months. The child was aged 1 year 7 months and 11 days. The funeral was held Sunday, Rev. D. Barshinger having charge of the services.

Mrs John Zerby.

Mrs. John Zerby, of Potter township, died very suddenly, on the night of August 6. She had not been in the best of health for some time and was stricken with heart failure while in bed. She was 65 years old and was a sister of Mrs. H. Y. Stitzer, of this place.

John Duck.

John Duck, an Austrian, employed at one of the Snow Shoe coal mines, died Monday morning, about 5 o'clock, at the Lock Haven Hospital, after an illness of over a month. The remains were shipped to Snow Shoe, Monday afternoon, for interment.

VETERAN CLUB PICNIC.

Annual Reunion Will be Held at Centre Hall, Sept. 14; Big Time Expected.

The annual reunion and picnic of the Centre County Veteran Club will be held at Centre Hall, Tuesday, September 14. This program will bring the event within the week of the annual grangers' picnic.

It was first proposed that the club hold this year's picnic at Pine Grove Mills, but at a meeting held here, on Saturday, it was decided to change to Centre Hall.

The meeting on Saturday was held in the office of W. H. Musser. In the absence of General Beaver, who was ill, Captain W. H. Fry, of Pine Grove Mills, presided. General Curtin and Captain Boal were elected as a committee on transportation for the picnic; W. H. Musser, secretary of the club, was named as a committee on printing; Captain Boal was delegated to look after arrangements in regard to grounds, and General Beaver and Captain Fry were commissioned to select speakers for the occasion.

A large attendance is expected and it is believed that this year's picnic will be the most successful ever held by the club.

Latham--Haupt.

One of the social events of last week was that on Friday evening, August 13, when Edward A. Latham and Miss Bernice Haupt were married by Rev. Frederick W. Barry, pastor of the Lutheran Church. The young couple, accompanied by the parents of the bride, were driven to the Lutheran parsonage, at about 7:30 o'clock and were soon happily wedded.

The bride is a charming young lady, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newton I. Haupt, of Pine Street, and has a large circle of friends in Bellefonte. Mr. Latham also is well known in Bellefonte. Being an excellent tenor singer, he has made himself popular by his singing in some of our churches and at other public gatherings in the town. For the last three years he has been employed as passenger brakeman between Harrisburg and Bellefonte. Recently he has been transferred to the main line, running between Harrisburg and Renovo.

The young couple left on the 8:16 train, amid showers of rice and confetti, for several days tour, visiting New York City and the Seaside resorts. On their return, they contemplate locating in Harrisburg, where they will go to housekeeping. Their many friends join in congratulations and in wishing them a long, happy and prosperous journey through life.

Irvin—Derstine.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized last evening, at the home of Mrs. Myrtel Irvin, on Willowbank Street. The occasion was the marriage of her daughter, Violet Florence Irvin, and W. Jesse Derstine, son of Mr. and W. H. Derstine, of Penn Street. The simple ring ceremony was conducted by Rev. J. F. Hower, of the United Evangelical Church, the bride being given away by her mother. Miss Mabel Gentzel, of Beaver Falls, acted as bridesmaid, while Jay Wallace, of Bellefonte, attended the groom. After the wedding, an elaborate wedding supper was served.

The bride is one of the most popular young ladies in the West Ward. The groom works at the Pennsylvania freight depot. Mr. and Mrs. Derstine expect to reside on Lamb Street. The "Republican" joins their many friends in wishing them a long life and a merry one.

Hoop—Waple.

Lenora Hoop and H. Walter Waple, both of Philipsburg, were united in marriage, last evening, at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Josephine Hoop. Miss Hoop is a charming young lady, and Mr. Waple is very well known in Bellefonte. He is the son of Charles M. Waple, proprietor of the Potter House. The young couple expect to reside at Philipsburg.

Royer—Yearick

Miss Ida M. Royer and Samuel C. Yearick, both of Madisonburg, were married, Friday, at the United Evangelical Parsonage, in Rebersburg, by Rev. J. B. McLaughlin. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Royer, while the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Yearick, of Madisonburg.

READY FOR PICNIC

Business Men's Outing at Hecla Park Will Be Big Event.

Everything is in readiness for the annual picnic of the Centre and Clinton county business men's association, which will be held, on Tuesday next, at Hecla Park. Indications are that the picnic this year will be the most successful ever held and that the crowd will exceed those of past years.

The attractions that have been provided are more varied than ever before, thus assuring something new every hour. The Repasz band, of Williamsport, will furnish the music for the occasion. As a musical organization this band has no equal in the State, outside the two large cities.

A baseball game, between Bellefonte and Lock Haven, at 3 p. m., means a battle royal. These are the strongest teams in the Central Penna. League. Aside from this a relay race composed of teams from Tyrone, Lock Haven, Jersey Shore and Bellefonte, together with numerous other races and contests, under the direction of Dr. R. L. Weston, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will continue from 10 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock in the evening. Valuable prizes have been provided for the winners.

Railroad accommodations are assured that will properly care for the thousands attending this annual outing and the committee in charge will spare neither time nor trouble to make the picnic a success in every way, so close up shop and once more meet with the business men of the two counties at beautiful Hecla Park on Tuesday, August 24th.

Hospital Notes.

Mrs. E. W. Crawford, of Centre Hall, was successfully operated on, Friday.

Miss Edith Schaffer, of Centre Hall, was successfully operated on, Saturday.

Mrs. Minnie Poorman, of Pleasant Gap, was operated on, Monday. At present she is doing very nicely.

Mrs. S. Claude Herr, of Curtin Street, was discharged, Monday, as cured. She recently was operated on for appendicitis.

DEPUTY STROHM HURT

Injured by Jumping From Train After Fleeing Prisoner.

Deputy Sheriff James B. Strohm had a narrow escape from death last night while attempting to catch a prisoner who jumped from a train, near Port Matilda. Bursey, leaping from the train after the fleeing prisoner Deputy Strohm was hurled to the ground, sustaining a slight fracture of the ankle. The prisoner, a Slav., who was hand cuffed, escaped.

Deputy Strohm was bringing the prisoner to the Bellefonte jail, on the train which arrives here at 8.16 o'clock. When about one mile this side of Port Matilda the prisoner ask Deputy Strohm to relieve the tension of his handcuffs, explaining that he wanted to go to the toilet room. Deputy Strohm complied with this request, but followed his prisoned to the toilet room. To make sure that everything would be all right he kept the toilet room door partly open.

Suddenly the prisoner threw himself against the door and rushing out of the rapidly moving train jumped off the steps. Regardless of the danger Deputy Strohm raced after the prisoner and jumped off the steps after him. Good luck was with him up to that point, for he succeeded in grabbing his man. The prisoner, however, fought back desperately, Deputy Strohm being thrown heavily to the ground. His right leg gave way under him. Taking advantage of the opportunity the handcuffed man ran away in the dark.

The train was stopped and Deputy Strohm taken aboard, He was brought to Bellefonte on a stretcher and removed to the hospital, where his injuries were given prompt attention.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

"Look out!" he said. "The governor's staff is coming back." And as the carabinieri returned he said casually to Von Grollerhagen:

"You'll have to get a new front tire, doc. That one is pretty near gone. Better have Jim here put on the spare one when he gets through."

The German looked at him.

"Do you know what you are asking me to do?"

"To have a new front tire put on," answered the lawyer. The police were looking on with interest, and finally Mariano approached.

"The carabinieri, with all excuses, beg that you will order the chauffeur to step forth from the machine."

Pike made an exclamation.

"No, sir! I worked on that machine myself for three hours. He's got his hands full of nuts and bolts and screws half fastened. We want to get the job finished. Tell them to go on up Main street with their Knights of Pythias parade and come around some day when we're not busy."

Mariano held a hurried consultation with the carabinieri and turned back.

"Because the chauffeur have been engage today the carabinieri ask ten thousand pardons, but inquire how long he have been known to his employer."

"How long! Why, he was raised on doc's father's farm!"

"If that is so"— began Mariano.

"So? Of course it's so. Tell 'em, doc!"

The German looked at Mariano gravely.

"You have heard my friend say it."

"I have your permission, Herr von Grollerhagen, to reveal your incognito to the carabinieri?"

"Is it necessary?"

"Otherwise they will not depart."

"Very well; tell them. But I rely upon them to preserve my incognito from all others."

Mariano smiled.

"Monseigneur, they depart," and turned to the uniformed men. An instant later these swung through the gate and went their way. Pike looked after them in astonishment.

"He must have mesmerized the militia, eh, doc?" and signed to the refugee to come out from the car. He was a pathetic figure as he emerged and held out his hands.

"To you both I give thanks"— But Von Grollerhagen cut in:

"My American friend has placed himself—and myself—in danger of the penal code of Italy for protecting you. Perhaps you will be good enough to let us know for what we have incriminated ourselves."

CHAPTER XII.

THE NIHILIST.

WITH a hasty glance about the garden to make sure he was not observed, the refugee approached Von Grollerhagen and Daniel and spread out his hands. As he stepped forward there was a movement of the window curtains in the casement above the doorway to the hotel, and he turned; but, whatever had caused it, the movement had ceased and there was nothing apparent.

"The Italian journals call me a brigand," said the Russian, "and in this they are inspired by the Russian legation at Rome. I am known as Ivanoff Ivanovitch, and I have spent nine years in Siberia, nine years of hell. It is ten years ago since I was condemned in St. Petersburg, and you, who know nothing of the horrors of Russian prisons, cannot understand what I have suffered, my friends. I was a professor of languages, a translator in the bureau of the minister of finance, and I was trusted."

For a moment he paused and pressed his scarred hands to his lined forehead, then sighed and went on:

"I was also a member of the Blue Fifty, a Constitutionalist, and as such was able to do a little for the cause, the cause, the same, my friend"—he turned to Pike—"for which your forbears suffered and fought—the cause of liberty. I could do but little, though I tried. At last I transferred the funds of the government to the Society of the Blue Fifty. It was a small thing. It was for the cause—not one ruble for myself. I swear it!"

Von Grollerhagen started back, with a gesture of repulsion, and Ivanovitch held out his hands.

"Not one ruble for myself!" he repeated. "It was for Russia's sake, not mine!"

He paused and went on wearily:

"But I committed the great Russian crime. I was caught, and through treachery. There was an Englishman who lived in Petersburg. He had contracts with the government. I thought he was my friend—my best friend. I had married in my student days in Paris. Ah, it is the old story!" he cried bitterly. "I knew the Englishman admired my wife, but I trusted her, and I trusted him, and he made my house his home. So many have done that thing. I had 50,000 rubles in my desk—the funds I had transferred—to be delivered to my society. One day the police came to search, and they found only me—not my wife, not my English friend, not the 50,000 rubles. I went to Siberia. Now I search for those two."

He leaned against the automobile and pressed his hands over his face, while Pike and Von Grollerhagen glanced at each other sorrowfully. Finally the latter asked:

"It was they who sent the police?" And Ivanovitch replied vigorously:

"After they had taken the money and were beyond the frontier themselves. That is all I have against them."

For a moment the hunted look left his eyes, and into them came the ravenous gleam of the hunting, starving wolf. His fingers clasped and unclasped themselves spasmodically, and there was a set look about his jaws that spoke ill for the guilty pair should they ever meet this man with the manacles off his hands.

The lawyer shuddered slightly as he gazed at him, and he laughed a short, hard laugh.

"Looks to me as if that would be about enough to have against them," he said. Von Grollerhagen stood combing his wiry beard with strong fingers and evidently studying the case. At last he spoke.

"Then by your own confession you are an embezzler and a revolutionist," he said, and at Ivanovitch's start of abject misery and contrition Pike stepped forward and laid his hand on the German's arm.

"Not one ruble for myself. I swear it!"

"The man's down," he said gently. "You wouldn't go back on him now?" He waited an instant and then chuckled grimly as he [illegible] "Besides, you've made yourself one of his confederates, doc," he finished.

As he spoke Von Grollerhagen glanced at him quickly, and his eyes took on a tinge of surprise.

"Upon my soul, but I have, my friend!" Then he laughed outright. "Ah, from the first sight of you in the hotel at Napoli I saw that you were a great man."

Daniel looked at him and grinned in his face.

"What you doing, doc—running for congress?" he asked, and the German joined him in the humor of the situation and then turned gravely to the Russian.

"I fear the carabinieri did not depart without suspicion."

"Suspicion!" echoed Ivanovitch bitterly. "They will watch every exit from the hotel and grounds. What can I do until dark?" Pike interrupted him quickly and motioned to the hotel.

"Why, doc, he's got the whole lower floor of this wing. You're his chauffeur"—

"I was about to suggest it," interrupted Von Grollerhagen, in his turn, with some grimness of manner. "I have a room that can well be spared for Professor Ivanovitch."

"How can I ever thank you? God bless you both!" said the Russian, going toward them with outstretched hands.

"Huh! Don't waste time talking about it," said Pike. "I shouldn't be surprised if you were hungry."

He took the refugee by the arm and steered him in the direction of the hotel, and as the three entered the wide door the curtains above the entrance were agitated violently and the head of Lady Creech popped out of the casement with the suddenness of a Punch. From the keen look on her face one might have imagined that had it not been for her deafness she might have heard every word of the conversation that had gone on below her. As it was, after gazing anxiously in the direction of the road she withdrew her head sharply and within a minute came out of the door of the hotel just in time to encounter Horace and Mme. de Champigny coming in from the grove. She approached them at once.

"Have you seen my brother?" she demanded excitedly. "Where is Lord Hawcastle?"

Horace looked at her with surprise.

"On the other side of the garden, Lady Creech," he answered, "down there on the terrace," and watched, with some amusement, the speedy efforts of the grim old lady as she hurried off. The amusement, however, rapidly gave place to a more interesting pastime, for, summoning all his callow courage, he set himself vigorously to hint at a possible union between himself and the noble countess.

It was evident from the first word that the lady was prepared for him and that, while she intended to offer him every bit of encouragement in her power, she would not be satisfied with anything short of a definite proposal and more likely before witnesses if possible.

He made his initial move with some gayety. She returned his banter with a mock seriousness and in answer to his challenge on her somber mood replied:

"But I cannot believe you are always serious, my friend."

"Try me," he demanded eagerly. "Set me some task to prove how serious I am." She smiled at him.

"Gladly," she said. "Complete this odious settlement. Overcome the resistance of this bad man who so troubles your sweet sister."

Horace took her hand and murmured:

"You promise me that when it is settled I may speak to you"—

"Yes. You may speak to me—when you please." And at the words he kissed her hand rapturously.

In the meantime the suddenly rejuvenated Lady Creech had found her brother-in-law and had imparted to him words of the utmost importance. She had temporarily forgotten her deafness, or else the agitation that possessed her had removed it, for she was bordering upon "a state of mind."

She walked him back to the hotel when she found him and talked continuously all the way, and as she talked his excitement grew to match her own. As they approached the garden Lady Creech said to him:

"I couldn't hear distinctly, for they mumbled their words, but upon my soul, Hawcastle, even if I couldn't hear well, I saw enough."

CHAPTER XIII.

THE LETTER.

AS Lady Creech and Hawcastle entered the garden, where Horace was still holding the hand of the fair countess, they encountered Almeric, who was strolling in aimlessly from the direction of the village. Hawcastle beckoned to him.

"Anything unusual down there?" he asked, pointing to the village.

"Rawther! Carabinieri still hunting that bandit chap," said his hopeful son languidly.

"Don't mumble your words!" snapped the old lady, and Horace and madame turned sharply and confusedly. Almeric made a gesture of impatience and, putting his head close to his respected aunt's ear, shouted:

"Hunting a bally bandit!" at which the old woman screamed sharply. Hawcastle took him by the shoulder.

"What do they say about him?" he demanded.

"That he is still in the neighborhood," replied his heir, with a languid sigh.

"What did I tell you?" asked Lady Creech triumphantly. And the earl made a gesture of impatience.

"Almeric, find your betrothed and bring her here," he said. And the young man trotted off slowly, Horace came slowly forward.

"What's the row, sir?" he asked, and the earl smiled.

"My dear young man," he said, "I congratulate you that you and your sister need no longer submit to an odious dictation."

He was about to say more, but at that moment Daniel came down the steps and walked across the grass to the motor. As he passed the group he smiled genially and observed:

"Looks to me as if it was going to clear up cold."

"Good afternoon, Mr. Pike," answered the earl and motioned the others to leave.

Pike merely nodded his head, and Hawcastle came up to him.

"It is a pity that there should have been any misunderstanding in the matter of your ward's betrothal," he said, and Pike smiled grimly.

"Oh, I wouldn't call it a misunderstanding," he said, and the earl went on.

"It would ill become a father to press upon the subject of his son's merits"—he began, but Pike cut him short.

"I won't talk with you about him," he said. "I don't want to hurt your feelings."

Hawcastle glared at him and was about to reply when Mariano entered with a letter on a tray, which he handed to the lawyer, who regarded it curiously. There was a growing menace in the earl's attitude, and as his anger grew his suavity grew with it.

"There is another matter to which I want to call your attention," he went on, and Pike answered him at once.

"I'll talk about anything else with you," he replied and looked up to see Ethel coming down the steps. She came forward to the earl and said:

"You wished me to come here?"

"I wish to tell you that I see light breaking through the clouds. Have another talk with our friend here, and, believe me, all will be well."

With a bow he left the garden, and Ethel stood staring after him. Pike looked up quickly from the letter he was reading and crossed over to her.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION SUBMITTED TO THE CITIZENS OF THIS COMMONWEALTH FOR THEIR APPROVAL OR REJECTION, BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, AND PUBLISHED BY ORDER OF THE SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH, IN PURSUANCE OF ARTICLE XVIII OF THE CONSTITUTION.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing amendments to sections eight and twenty-one of article four, sections eleven and twelve of article five, sections two, three, and fourteen of article eight, section one of article twelve, and sections two and seven of article fourteen, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, and providing a schedule for carrying the amendments into effect.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following are proposed as amendments to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof:—

Amendment One—To Article Four, Section Eight.

Section 2. Amend section eight of article four of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, which reads as follows:—

"He shall nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of two-thirds of all the members of the Senate, appoint a Secretary of the Commonwealth and an Attorney General during pleasure, a Superintendent of Public Instruction for four years, and such other officers of the Commonwealth as he is or may be authorized by the Constitution or by law to appoint; he shall have power to fill all vacancies that may happen, in offices to which he may appoint, during the recess of the Senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session; he shall have power to fill any vacancy that may happen, during the recess of the Senate, in the office of Auditor General, State Treasurer, Secretary of Internal Affairs or Superintendent of Public Instruction, in a judicial office, or in any other elective office which he is or may be authorized to fill; if the vacancy shall happen during the session of the Senate, the Governor shall nominate to the Senate, before their final adjournment, a proper person to fill said vacancy; but in any such case of vacancy, in an elective office, a person shall be chosen to said office at the next general election, unless the vacancy shall happen within three calendar months immediately preceding such election, in which case the election for said office shall be held at the second succeeding general election. In acting on executive nominations the Senate shall sit with open doors, and, in confirming or rejecting the nominations of the Governor, the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays, and shall be entered on the journal," so as to read as follows:—

He shall nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of two-thirds of all the members of the Senate, appoint a Secretary of the Commonwealth and an Attorney General during pleasure, a Superintendent of Public Instruction for four years, and such other officers of the Commonwealth as he is or may be authorized by the Constitution or by law to appoint; he shall have power to fill all vacancies that may happen, in offices to which he may appoint, during the recess of the Senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session; he shall have power to fill any vacancy that may happen during the recess of the Senate, in the office of Auditor General, State Treasurer, Secretary of Internal Affairs or Superintendent of Public Instruction, in a judicial office, or in any other elective office which he is or may be authorized to fill; if the vacancy shall happen during the session of the Senate, the Governor shall nominate to the Senate, before their final adjournment, a proper person to fill said vacancy; but in any such case of vacancy, in an elective office, a person shall be chosen to said office on the next election day appropriate to such office, according to the provisions of this Constitution, unless the vacancy shall happen within two calendar months immediately preceding such election day in which case the election for said office shall be held on the second succeeding election day appropriate to such office. In acting on executive nominations the Senate shall sit with open doors, and, in confirming or rejecting the nominations of the Governor, the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays, and shall be entered on the journal.

Amendment Two—To Article Four, Section Twenty-one.

Section 3. Amend section twenty-one of article four, which reads as follows:—

"The term of the Secretary of Internal Affairs shall be four years; of the Auditor General three years; and of the State Treasurer two years. These officers shall be chosen by the qualified electors of the State at general elections. No person elected to the office of Auditor General or State Treasurer shall be capable of holding the same office for two consecutive terms," so as to read:—

The terms of the Secretary of Internal Affairs, the Auditor General, and the State Treasurer shall each be four years and they shall be chosen by the qualified electors of the State at general elections but a State Treasurer, elected in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine shall serve for three years, and his successors shall be elected at the general election in the year one thousand nine hundred and twelve, and in every fourth year thereafter. No person elected to the office of Auditor General or State Treasurer shall be capable of holding the same office for two consecutive terms.

Amendment Three—To Article Five, Section Eleven.

Section 4. Amend section eleven of article five, which reads as follows:—

"Except as otherwise provided in this Constitution, justices of the peace or aldermen shall be elected in the several wards, districts, boroughs and townships at the time of the election of constables by the qualified electors thereof, in such manner as shall be directed by law, and shall be commissioned by the Governor for a term of five years. No township, ward, district or borough shall elect more than two justices of the peace or aldermen without the consent of a majority of the qualified electors within such township, ward or borough; no person shall be elected to such office unless he shall have resided within the township, borough ward or district for one year next preceding his election. In cities containing over fifty thousand inhabitants, not more than one alderman shall be elected in each ward or district," so as to read:—

Except as otherwise provided in this Constitution, justices of the peace or aldermen shall be elected in the several wards, districts, boroughs or townships by the qualified electors thereof, at the municipal election, in such manner as shall be directed by law, and shall be commissioned by the Governor for a term of six years. No township, ward district or borough shall elect more than two justices of the peace or aldermen without the consent of a majority of the qualified electors within such township ward or borough; no person shall be elected to such office unless he shall have resided within the township, borough ward or district for one year next preceding his election. In cities containing over fifty thousand inhabitants, not more than one alderman shall be elected in each ward or district.

Amendment Four—To Article Five, Section Twelve.

Section 5. Amend section twelve of article five of the Constituton, which reads as follows:—

"In Philadelphia there shall be established, for each thirty thousand inhabitants, one court, not of record, of police and civil causes, with jurisdiction not exceeding one hundred dollars; such courts shall be held by magistrates whose term of office shall be five years and they shall be elected on general ticket by the qualified voters at large; and in the election of the said magistrates no voter shall vote for more than two-thirds of the number of persons to be elected when more than one are to be chosen; they shall be compensated only by fixed salaries, to be paid by said county; and shall exercise such jurisdiction, civil and criminal, except as herein provided, as is now exercised by aldermen, subject to such changes, not involving an increase of civil jurisdiction or conferring political duties, as may be made by law. In Philadelphia the office of alderman is abolished," so as to read as follows:—

In Philadelphia there shall be established, for each thirty thousand inhabitants, one court, not of record, of police and civil causes, with jurisdiction not exceeding one hundred dollars; such courts shall be held by magistrates whose term of office shall be six years, and they shall be elected on general ticket at the municipal election, by the qualified voters at large; and in the election of the said magistrates no voter shall vote for more than two-thirds of the number of persons to be elected when more than one are to be chosen; they shall be compensated only by fixed salaries, to be paid by said county; and shall exercise such jurisdiction, civil and criminal, except as herein provided, as is now exercised by aldermen, subject to such changes, not involving an increase of civil jurisdiction or conferring political duties, as may be made by law. In Philadelphia the office of alderman is abolished.

Amendment Five—To Article Eight, Section Two.

Section 6. Amend section two of article eight, which reads as follows:—

"The general election shall be held annually on the Tuesday next following the first Monday of November, but the General Assembly may by law fix a different day, two-thirds of all the members of each House consenting thereto," so as to read:—

The general election shall be held biennially on the Tuesday next following the first Monday of November in each even-numbered year, but the General Assembly may by law fix a different day, two-thirds of all the members of each House consenting thereto: Provided, That such election shall always be held in an even-numbered year.

Amendment Six—To Article Eight, Section Three.

Section 7. Amend section three of article eight, which reads as follows:—

"All elections for city, ward, borough and township officers, for regular terms of service, shall be held on the third Tuesday of February," so as to read:—

All judges elected by the electors of the State at large may be elected at either a general or municipal election, as circumstances may require. All elections for judges of the courts for the several judicial districts, and for county, city, ward, borough, and township officers for regular terms of service, shall be held on the municipal election day; namely, the Tuesday next following the first Monday of November in each odd-numbered year, but the General Assembly may by law fix a different day, two-thirds of all the members of each House consenting thereto: Provided, That such election shall always be held in an odd-numbered year.

Amendment Seven—To Article Eight, Section Fourteen.

Section 8. Amend section fourteen of article eight, which reads as follows:—

"District election boards shall consist of a judge and two inspectors, who shall be chosen annually by the citizens. Each elector shall have the right to vote for the judge and one inspector, and each inspector shall appoint one clerk. The first election board for any new district shall be selected, and vacancies in election boards filled, as shall be provided by law. Election officers shall be privileged from arrest upon days of election, and while engaged in making up and transmitting returns, except upon warrant of a court of record or judge thereof, for an election fraud, for felony, or for wanton breach of the peace. In cities they may claim exemption from jury duty during their terms of service," so as to read:—

District election boards shall consist of a judge and two inspectors, who shall be chosen biennially, by the citizens at the municipal election; but the General Assembly may require said boards to be appointed in such manner as it may by law provide. Laws regulating the appointment of said boards may be enacted to apply to cities only: Provided, That such laws be uniform for cities of the same class. Each elector shall have the right to vote for the judge and one inspector, and each inspector shall appoint one clerk. The first election board for any new district shall be selected, and vacancies in election boards filled, as shall be provided by law. Election officers shall be privileged from arrest upon days of election, and while engaged in making up and transmitting returns, except upon warrant of a court of record or judge thereof, for an election fraud for felony, or for wanton breach of the peace. In cities they may claim exemption from jury duty during their terms of service.

Amendment Eight—To Article Twelve Section One.

Section 9. Amend section one, article twelve, which reads as follows:—

"All officers, whose selection is not provided for in this Constitution, shall be elected or appointed as may be directed by law," so as to read:—

All officers, whose selection is not provided for in this Constitution, shall be elected or appointed as may be directed by law: Provided, That elections of State officers shall be held on a general election day, and elections of local officers shall be held on a municipal election day, except when, in either case, special elections may be required to fill unexpired terms.

Amendment Nine—To Article Fourteen Section Two.

Section 10. Amend section two of article fourteen, which reads as follows:—

"County officers shall be elected at the general elections and shall hold their offices for the term of three years, beginning on the first Monday of January next after their election, and until their successors shall be duly qualified; all vacancies not otherwise provided for shall be filled in such manner as may be provided by law," so as to read:—

County officers shall be elected at the municipal elections and shall hold their offices for the term of four years, beginning on the first Monday of January next after their election, and until their successors shall be duly qualified; all vacancies not otherwise provided for shall be filled in such manner as may be provided by law.

Amendment Ten—To Article Fourteen, Section Seven.

Section 11. Amend section seven, article fourteen, which reads as follows:—

"Three county commissioners and three county auditors shall be elected in each county where such officers are chosen, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five and every third year thereafter; and in the election of said officers each qualified elector shall vote for no more than two persons, and the three persons having the highest number of votes shall be elected; any casual vacancy in the office of county commissioner or county auditor shall be filled by the court of common pleas of the county in which such vacancy shall occur, by the appointment of an elector of the proper county who shall have voted for the commissioner or auditor whose place is to be filled," so as to read:—

Three county commissioners and three county auditors shall be elected in each county where such officers are chosen, in the year one thousand nine hundred and eleven and every fourth year thereafter; and in the election of said officers each qualified elector shall vote for no more than two persons, and the three persons having the highest number of votes shall be elected; any casual vacancy in the office of county commissioner or county auditor shall be filled by the court of common pleas of the county in which such vacancy shall occur, by the appointment of an elector of the proper county who shall have voted for the commissioner or auditor whose place is to be filled.

Schedule for the Amendments.

Section 12. That no inconvenience may arise from the changes in the Constitution of the Commonwealth, and in order to carry the same into complete operation, it is hereby declared that—

In the case of officers elected by the people, all terms of office fixed by act of Assembly at an odd number of years shall each be lengthened one year, but the Legislature may change the length of the term, provided the terms for which such officers are elected shall always be for an even number of years.

The above extension of official terms shall not affect officers elected at the general election of one thousand nine hundred and eight; nor any city, ward, borough, township, or election division officers, whose terms of office, under existing law, end in the year one thousand nine hundred and ten.

In the year one thousand nine hundred and ten the municipal election shall be held on the third Tuesday of February, as heretofore; but all officers chosen at that election to an office the regular term of which is two years, and also all election officers and assessors chosen at that election, shall serve until the first Monday of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and eleven. All officers chosen at that election to offices the term of which is now four years, or is made four years by the operation of these amendments or this schedule, shall serve until the first Monday of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and thirteen. All justices of the peace, magistrates, and aldermen, chosen at that election, shall serve until the first Monday of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and fifteen. After the year nineteen hundred and ten, and until the Legislature shall otherwise provide, all terms of city, ward, borough, township, and election division officers shall begin on the first Monday of December in an odd-numbered year.

All city, ward, borough, and township officers holding office at the date of the approval of these amendments, whose terms of office may end in the year one thousand nine hundred and eleven, shall continue to hold their offices until the first Monday of December of that year.

All judges of the courts for the several judicial districts, and also all county officers, holding office at the date of the approval of these amendments, whose terms of office may end in the year one thousand nine hundred and eleven, shall continue to hold their offices until the first Monday of January, one thousand nine hundred and twelve.

THE PET OF CIRCUMSTANCES.

A MAN may vow with solemn voice
That so and so he'll do,
And then some little circumstance
Comes wandering into view,
Some trifle that appears to be
No larger than a dot,
And then his plans go all awry
As if the same were not.

With resolutions written out
In bold and lifelike hand
He thinks he is prepared to go
The way that he has planned,
But when the day is still so young
That it is hardly born
The resolutions often look
Quite helpless and forlorn.

We cannot order forth our lives
As though they were a meal
We ordered at a restaurant—
Soup, celery and veal.
We plan to go a certain way
Some special goal to gain,
And when at length we sally forth
It's on a different train.

A man both resolute and strong
And on an easy grade
May sometimes good connections make
With plans that he has made,
But in most cases out of ten
All he can do is wait
And be the tool of circumstance,
An easy mark for fate.

Gypsy Wheel Of Fortune.

On a round disk of pasteboard draw sections from the center like the spokes of a wheel. Make as many divisions as you choose and in each division put a figure. Now fix your "wheel" to an upright wooden stand (see illustration) so that the disk will revolve. Now for the "lady" who will tell all the good things that will happen to you in the future. Find a pretty picture of a gypsy maiden, paste it on thin cardboard to stiffen it and then, having carefully cut out the picture, fix firmly to the center of your wheel so that, while the disk revolves, the "lady" is stationary.

Now prepare a number of cards, each having a number corresponding with those on the wheel. On each card write a prophecy, such as "You will travel in foreign lands," etc.

The player who wishes to consult the gypsy must set the wheel revolving, and when it stops the future is read according to the number indicated.

Magic With a Wand.

The leader of this game must have an accomplice, who goes outside the room while the word to be guessed is chosen. The two must previously arrange that the leader who holds the magic word shall keep up a constant stream of conversation while flourishing the wand before his blindfolded companion. The accomplice must notice the first letter in every sentence his companion uses. These are the consonants of the word, while the vowels are represented by tapping the wand on the ground, once for a, twice for e, three times for i, four times for o, five times for u.

Say the word is cherry. The leader pretends to make cabalistic signs around the head of his accomplice and remarks, "Can you see me?" After a pause, and when the accomplice has assured the company he cannot, then the leader proceeds, "How deeply I have dipped into magic lore none but myself can say," then taps twice to represent e. "Rub the back of your head, my dear brother; it will clear your intellect." Then after a pause he may add, "Rubbing is good for weak intellects," then another pause. "Your intellect, of course, is not weak. Still, the rubbing may help you to guess the word, eh?"

Then the accomplice, who has spelled out the word cherry, must reply: "Yes, brother, you are right. I have rubbed out the word cherry." Great care must be taken to make up sentences which will fit into the game and yet give the required letters.

The Stag and the Faun.

A stag, grown old and peevish, stood stamping his feet and tossing his head as had been his habit of old. All at once he began to bellow in so terrible a manner that all the animals in the forest were frightened. In the midst of this general consternation a faun approached him.

"What is the reason, I pray you, that you, who formerly were so brave and strong, are now afraid of dogs? You are bigger and better armed than they, yet nevertheless, when a single one of these animals barks, fear seizes you, and you take flight as if all the dogs in the country were at your heels."

"All that you say is very true, and I have said as much to myself more than a thousand times. Yet, no matter what resolutions I may make, I no sooner hear the voice of a dog than I tremble in all my limbs and am obliged, in spite of my strength and courage, to fly and hide myself where I can."

Reflections will not cure natural infirmities. There are many cowards who pretend to be courageous and valiant when they are out of danger, but when danger really confronts them their courage fails. Their cowardice is the more ridiculous because they seek to hide it under an affected bravery.—From French of Perrin.

A good musical game is to have each one of the company get up in turn and sing a popular song without telling the name, and the other players must guess the name and write it down in order. This produces much fun and noise, especially if there are any "tone deaf" guests present. A prize is awarded to the best guesser.

To make your musical evening complete play the game called orchestra. Again with paper and pencil each guest tries to write the longest list of words contained in the word orchestra.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Brights or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

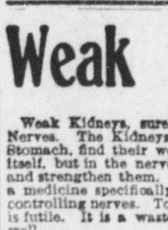
Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for much sickness and suffering, therefore, if kidney trouble is permitted to continue, serious results are most likely to follow. Your other organs may need attention, but your kidneys most, because they do most and should have attention first. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.



If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. A trial will convince you of its great merit.

The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest because its remarkable health restoring properties have been proven in thousands of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best.

DOCTORS MISTAKES

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or overbusy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better by reason of the wrong treatment, but probably worse. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

Perversion and Hypocrisy.

In one column of its issue of last week the "Democratic Watchman" declared that it was not its policy to "malign the candidates of the opposition." In an adjoining column there was an attack on Judge Robert von Moschzisker, the Republican nominee for Supreme Court Justice, which denotes an amazing degree of hypocrisy or lack of information on the part of our esteemed contemporary.

Assailing Judge von Moschzisker for his decision sustaining the constitutionality of the act of 1903, increasing salaries of judges, the "Watchman" said:

> "After considerable difficulty two judges of the State were induced to affirm the validity of that act. von Moschzisker, of Philadelphia, was one of them and he wrote the opinion. It was a palpable perversion of power."

If, as the "Watchman" so indignantly avers, this construction of the act was a "perversion of power," it should have carried its indignation a little farther and told the whole story. It should have explained that none other than Samuel Gustine Thompson, of Philadelphia, that well known and distinguished Democrat, while on the Supreme Court bench, wrote and handed down the opinion affirming the decision of Judge von Moschzisker. Certainly the "Watchman" was aware of this. Why did it not frankly say so? Was it because Justice Thompson happened to be a Democrat that it conveniently neglected to include him? If Judge von Moschzisker was guilty of "perversion of power," was not Justice Thompson equally guilty, if not more so?

Let us look into the facts in the case. On April 5, 1904, the mandamus upon the State Treasurer, (Harris), accompanied by two separate opinions, one from Judge von Moschzisker, concurred in by one from Judge Martin Bell, (Blair), arrived by mail in Harrisburg, declaring that the judges' salary act of April 4, 1903, applied to all the judges in the State, no matter when their terms began. These mailed documents were received by the Prothonotary of the Common Pleas of Dauphin County. Attorney General Carson had given an opinion to the same effect.

On December 31st, 1904, Justice Samuel Gustine Thompson, as his last official act on the Supreme Court bench, handed down an opinion, affirming that of Judges von Moschzisker and Bell. The newspaper dispatches explained that, "as the only Justice having no personal interest in the question it was left entirely to him by the other Justices."

In other words, Justice Thompson, a Democrat, held that the opinion of Judge von Moschzisker, a Republican, was sound.

Continuing its warfare on Judge von Moschzisker the "Watchman," taking up the 2-cent railroad fare act, which was tested in the courts, said:

> "But Judge von Moschzisker handed down a decision that the law was unconstitutional for the reason that the rate was confiscatory."

Let us look into the facts in this case. On January 20, 1908, by a majority opinion, delivered by Chief Justice Mitchell, the Supreme Court declared the 2-cent fare law unjust and one that could not be held to operate against the Pennsylvania Railroad. The question of the constitutionality was left open. Justices Mestrezat and Stewart dissented. Justice Potter also dissented, bnt only as to the computations made. It was not Common Pleas No. 3, Judge von Moschzisker's, but Common Pleas No. 4, and the lower court's opinion from Judges Willson and Audenried, that was affirmed by the 4 to 3 decision of the Supreme Court.

These are facts, familiar to all who have any knowledge of the cases in question, which appear on the records and which we respectfully submit to the "Watchman."

Soldiers' Pensions.

In another column we print a letter from Theodore P. Rynder, of Milesburg, proposing a bill for increases in soldiers' pensions by the United States Government.

That the government should provide well for the soldiers and sailors who saved the Union is our firm conviction. Nothing is too good for the old soldiers. Each year sees the ranks reduced in numbers. It will not be long before all will have responded to the bugle call of the Great Commander. Their closing years should be made as comfortable and happy as possible.

To many the government pension is the sole means of support. That this allowance should be as much as the government can provide is conceded by all who love their country and know its history. The government should care for its "boys." Each and every one of them should receive $12 a month, or more. The mininum allowance is the vital feature involved. To a large number such an increase would come in the hour of greatest need. It was in the hour of need that they went to the aid of their country. The present minimum stands between the wolf and the door for a large quota of the men who wore the blue. An increased pension would go a step farther and spread more sunshine inside the homes.

GIRL WINS LOT

Miss Irene McGinley, of Julian, Held Lucky Number at State College.

Ticket No. 4274, held by Irene McGinley, of Julian, drew the lot chanced off at Leathers Bros. real estate auction, at State College, last Saturday. Upward of 6000 tickets were entered in the contest. The lot won by Miss McGinley is 50 by 160 feet, and is valued at upward of $400.

Several thousand persons from all parts of the county attended the auction. A special train over the Bellefonte Central Railroad conveyed a large crowd from Bellefonte and points along that line.

Hundreds of others journied to State College in buggies, carriages and automobiles. State College merchants cooperated in making the event a success by closing their respective places of business during the greater part of the afternoon.

All told about 52 lots were sold at the auction, the first two going to Mills Fryberger, of Unionville, for $425 each, and the third to Captain William H. Fry, of Pine Grove for $385. The 52 lots brought an average price of about $375, and were sold by Col. J. C. Morrow, an expert auctioneer, in a remarkably short time.

A balloon ascension and band concert served as attractions for the large crowd, although the contest for the free lot was the big card of the day. Helen Knisely, the 5-year-old daughter of Andrew Knisely, picked the winning number from the box at the conclusion of the auction.

A large delegation of residents of Howard attended the auction. Those in the party included Mr. and Mrs. Will Weber, E. M. Robb, Hayes Schenck, Dr. O. W. McEntire and J. S. Bathurst. Those from Nittany included F. E. and B. F. Vonada, while from Jacksonville there were present C. W. Yearick, E. E. Vonada and others. Dr. W. L. Jacobs and a number of others were present from Centre Hall.

Pretty nearly everybody in and about State College turned out to help make the event a success. To mention all from State College would be to publish the borough register. A random glance noted Dr. Theodore S. Christ, Hiram Thompson, Postmaster John Stewart and Captain Patterson, who made up a little group and enjoyed themselves discussing the annual reunion and picnic of the Centre County Veteran Club, to be held next month.

Odd Fellows Picnic.

At a meeting last Friday of a joint executive committee of the Bellefonte and State College lodges of the I. O. O. F., it was decided to hold an Odd Fellow's picnic at Hunter's Park, September 6, "Labor Day." Special trains will be run and a glorious time is promised. This is primarily a basket picnic, although meals and light refreshments will be sold on the grounds. The day will be characterized with many different sports and freak contests. A complete list of the amusements will be announced later.

The committees appointed were as follows: A. Lukenbach, S. A. Keefer, of Bellefonte, and Percival Rudy, of State College, music; J. H. Eberhart, David Miller, Thomas Hazel, Jacob Parks and B. T. Tate, of Bellefonte, and C. H. Evey and Robert Edmiston, of State College, refreshments; Edward Owens, H. E. Clevenstine and W. S. Sholl, of Bellefonte, and George T. Graham, C. B. Sheasly, Harry Sauers and P. D. Foster, of State College, sports; C. M. Hood and John Hartswick, of State College, printing; H. B. Pontius, and Sigmund Joseph, of Bellefonte and Andrew Tate, of Pine Grove Mills, transportation.

A committee of Rebeccas, from the Crystal Spring Lodge of Bellefonte, and Lady's State Lodge, of State College, were appointed to cooperate with the executive committee. In the committee are Mrs. Samuel Lytzel, Mrs. Harry Smith and Miss Sallie Dunlap, of Bellefonte, and Miss Margaret Moore, Miss Edna Moffet and Miss Leuella Edmiston, of State College. The executive committee is composed of Sigmund Joseph, H. B. Pontus and A. Lukenbach, of Bellefonte, and George T. Graham, John M. Hartswick and Percival Rudy, of State College.

Remarkable Blind Man.

Liborio Delfino, representing schools for the blind, at Pittsburg and Overbrook, was a business visitor in town, Saturday. Although he is totally blind, Mr. Delfino is one of the head instructors at the Overbrook school and during the summer is making a tour of Pennsylvania in search of new students. Mr. Delfino is a college graduate, and the master of several languages. To a representative of the "Republican," he showed what is called a blind magazine. This magazine consists of about sixty pages of reading matter, with raised letters. The magazine is read with the fingers. Mr. Delfino stated that the average student at the Overbrook school could read sixty words of this writing a minute. While here, he interviewed W. H. Macker and Charles Koontz.

SUGGEST "HOME WEEK" CELEBRATION IN 1910

Citizens Propose Jubilation for Bellefonte Next Year.

FOR CURTIN'S GRAVE

Interesting Story of How Owen Jones, a Philadelphian, Passed His Hat to Purchase First Floral Piece Sent By Pennsylvania Reserves.

A number of our business men and others are discussing the advisability of having a "Home Week" celebration for Bellefonte in 1910. Thus far the matter has been discussed but informally. Whether it assumes definite shape will depend entirely on how the suggestion is received by the merchants and citizens, generally.

By those advancing the suggestion it is proposed that next year be selected for a number of reasons. In addition to celebrating the completion of the new school building and the improvements to the Court House they have suggested that the time would be appropriate as the fiftieth anniversary of the election of Curtin, the "War Governor."

So far as the plans have been advanced they call for a three-days' celebration, only, it being held that this would meet all requirements and be more satisfactory to the public than a full week given over for that purpose.

A few months ago Gregg Post No. 95, placed upon the grave of the late Governor Curtin a tribute from the Pennsylvania Reserve Association, in Philadelphia. Since 1895 such a tribute has been sent to Bellefonte on each Memorial Day by the survivors of the Reserves which Curtin organized during the Civil war.

There is an interesting story as to how the first floral piece happened to be placed on the grave of the "War Governor." It has to do with a Philadelphia politician, for it was he and none other who inaugurated a custom which will be adhered to so long as a survivor of the Reserves remains on earth waiting the sounding of "taps."

Owen Jones, a Welshman residing in the Twentieth ward, in Philadelphia, was one of Curtin's Reserves. He was more than a follower. He idolized Curtin. To this day he reverently doffs his hat at the mention of the name of his old leader. Some few months after Curtin's death, several Reserves happened to be together. Plans for raising money for some Memorial Day project were being discussed, when Jones walked into the room.

"What do you think about it?" Jones who asked.

"What do I think?" queried Jones, "If you want to know, I'll tell you. We have been raising money for one thing and another, but we have overlooked the most important duty of all. We should raise some money to send a floral tribute to be placed upon Curtin's grave, at Bellefonte. I'll pass the hat right here and start the fund with $1.00."

And Jones did pass the hat, and his own hat at that. The suggestion met with enthusiastic support and in a few hours enough money was raised to purchase the first floral piece sent from Philadelphia by the Reserves.

Each year since that time Jones has "passed the hat," personally selected the floral piece and attended to the shipping of it to Bellefonte. A regular contributor to the fund was the veteran editor and friend of Curtin, the late Colonel Alexander K. McClure. Although on his sickbed at the time McClure did not forget to send for Jones and contribute his mite toward the fund for the floral piece which now is withering on the grave in the Union Cemetery.

Jones is an interesting type. Powerfully built and handy with his fists even at his advanced age, he would fight at the drop of the hat were Curtin's name assailed in his hearing.

One night, a few years ago, Jones and his wife were attending a meeting at which former Governor Pennypacker was speaking in the warmest praise of General Meade. Jones inwardly resented the failure of Pennypacker to say something about Curtin. It made no difference to him that General Meade was the subject of the address.

"I'm going to stand up and ask Mr. Pennypacker if he can't say just one word for Curtin," said Jones to his wife, who pleaded with him not to lest he create a scene and embarrass them both. Several times Jones was almost on his feet to ask the question so grieviously troubling him and to resent what he considered a slight to Curtin. Each time his wife, whose name was Ellen, pulled him back into his chair. Finally Pennypacker concluded his remarks, but there was no joy in the heart of Jones. Turning to his wife, who was congratulating herself that the danger point had been passed, Jones remarked:

"I've taken your advice, Ellen, and now I'm ashamed of myself. The next time wo go to hear Mr. Pennypacker talk about General Meade you'll stay at home, and you can put it down something will be said for Curtin if I have to say it myself."

Jones is a politician, a term often used and many times abused. He is a tipstaff in one of the Philadelphia courts. First, last and all the time he is "a friend of Curtin."

FOR HIGHER PENSIONS

Theodore P. Rynder Drafts Bill Proposing Increases.

Milesburg, Penna., August 18, 1909.

Mr. Editor of the Bellefonte Republican.

DEAR SIR:—

The great increase in the cost of living (said to be 47½ per cent) is a terrible hardship on the Old Soldiers. With their increasing age and infirmities they are unable to earn a part of their living by manual labor, and those who receive the lowest rates (and are without other means of support) are forced to live on a lower scale than the inmates of our jails and almshouses—or to receive assistance from their relatives, their posts or their municipalities. There is no visible sign of a decrease in the cost of living.

Under the increased cost of living since most of the pensions were granted, an $8 pension is worth only about $4.40, a $12 pension is worth only about $6.50, and a $20 pension only about $11. While the over 50,000 whose pensions are $6 to $8 per month are getting in effect but $3.30 to $4.40 a month.

That the men who saved this nation—who made all its great achievements possible that is spending $130,000,000 yearly on its navy and almost a like sum on its army, and spending five hundred millions to dig a canal at Panama, and devoting large sums to domestic waterway improvments that a Government whose resurces and credit are equal to the carrying out of these great works of development should allow its old defenders to be put on a less than prison-house diet is an injustice that demands an immediate remedy.

I believe that Congress will correct this when the matter is properly presented to its members, and I have therefore drawn this bill which is not all I would like, but all that I believe can be accomplished next winter, and which I know will carry great relief to those to whom it applies.

Hon. C. F. Barclay is in accord with this movement, and doubtless will take charge of this bill. Neither he nor I would be a beneficiary under it.

All G. A. R. Posts who see this and believe in it should endorse it, and a copy of the endorsement sent to me; and all veterans, sons of veterans, soldiers', widows and all citizens who approve it should send me a Postal saying "We approve the Rynder Pension Bill." Address me at Milesburg, Penna.

I therefore ask you to publish it and would be glad of any assistance you can render.

THEODORE P. RYNDER
Chairman Penn'a Service Pension Committee.

THE RYNDER PENSION BILL

AN ACT.

To increase the pensions of all soldiers and sailors of the United States now on the pension rolls to twelve dollars a month where they are now receiving less than that sum; and to increase the pensions of all soldiers and sailors who are now receiving twelve dollars and under sixteen dollars, to the sum of sixteen dollars a month; and to increase the pensions of all soldiers and sailors who are now receiving sixteen and under twenty dollars a month to the sum of twenty dollars a month; and to pension all honorably discharged soldiers or sailors whose service was less than ninety days, at the sum of twelve dollars a month, and to provide the means of payment thereof.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same.

Section 1—That the pensions of all soldiers or sailors of the United States that are now less than twelve dollars a month are hereby raised to twelve dollars a month.

Section 2—That the pensions of all soldiers or sailors of the United States who are now receiving twelve dollars and less than sixteen dollars a month are hereby increased to sixteen dollars a month.

Section 3—That the pensions of all soldiers and sailors of the United States whose pensions are now sixteen dollars and under twenty dollars a month are here y increased to twenty dollars a month.

Section 4—That all soldiers and sailors who were sworn into the military or naval service of the United States during the Civil War and were honorably discharged therefrom whose service was less than ninety days, shall be entitled to a pension of twelve dollars a month.

Section 5—That the widow of any soldier or sailor who would be entitled to the benefits of section 4 of this act shall be entitled to the widow's pension provided by existing law on proof of such service and widowhood.

Section 6—That this act shall not interfere with the prosecution of any claim pending or that may accrue under existing laws.

Section 7—That all pensions herein provided for shall take effect on the date of the passage of this act.

Section 8—That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to make use of such an amount of the currency provided under the Aldrich-Vreeland bill, or issue 3 per cent five year certificates, or in his judgement issue ten forty 2 per cent bonds to raise said money, if the current income shall be insufficient. If bonds are issued they shall be known as the Pension bonds of the United States of America, and they shall be available for all uses that any other United States bonds are used. Such bonds may be issued annually to cover the entire pension payments of the Government.

IN SUMMER DON'T—

DON'T fail to take a bath every morning. If you can't manage a full bath, take a sponge bath.

DON'T wear the same stockings two days running nor the same shoes if you can afford to keep several pairs on hand.

DON'T wear shoes that are too small for you.

DON'T drink iced water or you may have an attack of acute indigestion.

DON'T eat meat more than once a day and then as little as possible. Bread and milk or bread and fruit are enough for the midday meal in very hot weather.

DON'T wear a high, tight collar. Leave the blood vessels of the neck free.

DON'T wear stiff, starched clothing. You will find the soft garments much more comfortable.

DON'T drink whisky or other alcoholic drinks. They are poison on a hot day and breeders of sunstroke.

Of all these don'ts the two most important to be observed are those regarding alcoholic drinks and tight clothing. The others are for comfort; THESE ARE FOR SAFETY.

TO USE PERUNA.

MRS. J. G. DUKES.

Rev. J. G. Dukes, Pastor of the Unitarian Church of Pinetown, N. C., writes:

"My wife has been in a very bad state of health for several years, and nothing seemed to do her any good until she began to use Peruna one month ago. Since then the color has returned to her face, and she is gaining in flesh every day, and I believe she is a well woman to-day.

"My little boy, ten years old, was pale and had but little life. He began to use Peruna the day his mother began. To-day his face is rosy, and he is out in the yard running and jumping with the rest of the children."

Stomach Trouble Relieved.

Mrs. T. J. Ballard, Pryor Creek, Indian Territory, writes: "I am happy to tell you that I keep free from my old stomach trouble; feel no catarrhal symptoms at all. I am able to do my work, eat and drink what I want, and rejoice that I found a sure cure in your valuable medicines, which I failed to find in the best of home physicians."

Engagement Reception.

A happy event was that on Saturday evening, last, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Buddinger, of Snow Shoe. Miss Blanche Budinger gave a "miscellaneous shower" and reception in honor of her sister, Miss Effie Budinger and Mr. Robert R. Vorhis, of Yonkers, N. Y., whose engagement was recently announced. The guests included Miss Clara McKelvey, of Somerset, who is visiting Miss Budinger; Dr. T. M. Tibbens, of Beech Creek; H. G. Mann, of Mill Hall; Earle Leathers, of Mt. Eagle; J. Ellis Harvey, of Lock Haven; R. F. Rich, of Woolrich and Miss Marie Reese and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Snyder, of Snow Shoe.

Anti-Saloon Day.

Sunday, next, will be "Anti-Saloon Day" in the churches of Bellefonte. The Presbyterian and Methodist congregations will worship together in the Methodist Episcopal Church, at 10:45 a. m., and will be addresssed by the Rev. W. H. Chase, Asst. State Secretary. Mr. Chase will also speak in the United Brethren Church, at 7:30 P. M. Rev. Dr. Seiber will speak in the Lutheran Church, at 10:30 A. M., and in the United Evangelical Church, at 7:30 P. M. Rev. Alford Kelley, Field Secretary, will speak in the Zion Reformed Church, at 10:30 a. m. These speakers are worthy of a large hearing.

"Girls Will Be Girls."

Unlike the majority of musical comedies, "Girls will be girls" has a charming story and a consistent plot. The characters are human, natural and lifelike; each one is a distinct type. The scenes are laid in New England, and the characters appearing in the play are to be found any day in the smaller down east villages. If there were not a musical number introduced in "Girls will be Girls," it would still be a charming, pure, moral and refined rural comedy, but the play is enhanced by a score of charming musical numbers beautifully costumed and cleverly staged. The rural atmosphere of the play is admirably retained throughout the entire three acts, and all of those who have enjoyed "Way Down Fast," "The Old Homestead," and other rural plays, as well as devotees of comic opera and musical comedy, will find delightful entertainment in "Girls will be Girls" at Garman's opera house, Sept 9.

Our County at a Glance.

Howard.

Among the former good paying industries of the town were two that will be greatly missed this season. One of them was the large crop of huckleberries which Dame Nature brought forth on the slopes of the mountains adjacent to town, and which annually provided a source of much revenue to the men and boys who were not otherwise employed. Heretofore when there was a good crop many a family was provided with clothing and fuel for the winter from the sale of the luscious berry which found a ready sale at the market of our wholesale produce dealer, Joseph Diehl. The crop this year is almost a failure, probably on account of late frosts, and the income usually derived from this source will be greatly missed by those who tediously gathered the berries in years past.

Another industry that gave employment to a goodly number of our housewives and their sons and daughters during this season of the year was the Howard canning factory. The demand for help there was usually greater than the supply and men, women and children were asked to devote all or even their spare time during the rush season. The work was light and cleanly, as it consisted mostly in preparing beans, corn, tomatoes, etc. for the canning process and could be done by any one willing to work. This season the factory is closed and very little produce of this sort was raised, and while the farmer can dispose of his products in other markets those who performed the labor at the factory will be derived of the income from this source.

About 75 persons from this place who were more or less interested in the Leathers Brothers' auction sale at State College on Saturday took a day off and visited the town famous as an educational center. While some went for possible investment a great many went out of mere curiosity as to how the boys conducted their sales and some had never seen the beautiful town and the college buildings. They all found time to make an inspection of the buildings and the numerous improvemennts that are being made throughout the thriving borough, as well as to attend the sale and witness the attractions in connection therewith. They were satisfied that the Leathers Brothers know how to handle a town lot proposition, and the trip proved a pleasant and profitable one to all.

The annual festival by the ladies of the United Evangelical church will be held on the school house lawn, Saturday evening August 21. The customary refreshments will be served and all are invited to come and spend the evening with them.

The school house at Kennedy having outgrown its usefulness, the township school board recently decided on the erection of a new building at that point. It will be a substantial brick structure and will meet the requirements of that community for many years to come.

The borough schools will open for a seven months' term on Monday, September 13. The township schools will open one week later, on Monday, September 20, with the exception of the Kennedy school, which will be delayed on account of the new school bnilding.

After spending her summer vacation at home, Miss Edna Reber has returned to Philadelphia. where she is employed as a millinery saleslady in one of the Quaker City's large stores.

William Pletcher, of Eaglesmere, was a visitor in town last week. As William is one of the good old stock of Howard boys his many friends are always glad to see him when he comes down from that famous mountain resort.

The weather man's promised rain with "Mary's return over the mountain" came on schedule time. The showers on Sunday and Monday were very light and would have been of little or no account, but during Monday night this section was visited by more copious showers and as a result all growing vegetation is smiling and lifting up their heads. While some of the crops were past helping the long-looked for rain will be of inestimable help to others. With the rain that has already fallen and the outlook for more the farmers can look for a better yield of some of their crops than they have anticipated for several weeks past. It is thought, however, by many that most of the potatoes and much of the corn is past helping, as the potato stalks were dying off and it was too dry for the corn to form when it was in blossom.

The piano recital given by Mrs Comerford and her class, in the church at the old furnace, last Thursday evening, was a success in every particular and those who attended were thoroughly delighted with the musical. The manner in which the young folks rendered their parts displayed the thoroughness which was imparted to them by their teacher and showed how capably they had been instructed. Following is the order of exercises:

Poet and Peasant, Aug. Pacher
Nellie and Helene Weber
To Spring Grisy
Emma Weber.
M. Valse Brilliente, Moszkoroski
Mrs. Caroline Comerford.

John and Sparr Wert, of Tusseyville, and Glenn Wert and Mable Crouse, of Aaronsburg, were guests of Harry Sauers over Sunday.

Unionville.

Our people are all delighted with the splendid showers that have fallen recently. The ground had been so parched and dry, that the conditions were alarming and wells were going dry. Every heart should swell with thanks to the Great Giver of all good things, for these blessings we so continually receive.

Many of our town people are entertaining visitors, among whom are Ed. Griest and family, of Philipsburg; Mrs. Kurt Sensor, of Reynoldsville; Mrs. Erhart, of Braddock. Many others have come and gone.

Budd Griest and wife who went to Atlantic City two weeks ago still remains away visiting friends, and we sincerely hope that the rest and change will greatly benefit him, as his health has been quite impaired for some time.

Mrs. Mary Heenchy and Mrs. Yewer who went with the Griests came back much benefitted although tired out with sight seeing.

Mrs. Howard Holtzworth and Miss Sallie McGarvey have had a fine trip to Atlantic City. The present excursion rates are so low that every one who possibly can ought to take advantage of them to see the ocean. It certainly is wonderful beyond imagination.

David Pratt and family, who have been sojourning with Mr. Pratt's father for some time, expect to go to Pittsburg soon to visit friends of Mrs. Pratt.

James Pratt is spending a few days with a friend, Frank Fisher in Half Moon Valley, where he will fill the pulpit in the Lutheran church next Sunday. He preached last Sunday at Philipsburg.

Some of our people purposed holding a picnic, a social affair on the Presbyterian church grounds (Tuesday) but the rain interfered outside. However, they had the privilege of going inside the basement of the church with their tables but that would not have been much of a picnic so we remained at home with our dinners.

Mrs. Fanny Heiss, who has been visiting at Mrs. Andrew Rowans, for some time, will return to her home, at Altoona, soon.

Lightning struck one of the wires near the R. R. tower here, on Monday, and made it exceedindly dangerous for the operator. Had he had his hand on the instrument just then he would have been shocked and perhaps instantly killed. It made a report like that of a pistol fired twice, and people nearby thought it had struck their houses.

The post card picture rage has struck our town and every one is having their home, themselves or their babies put on cards to give away. There is nothing like being liberal, is there?

Miss Mattie Williams arrived home from New York City, on Saturday morning last, and stopped with friends here until Sunday morning, when she went to Martha, her home place.

Many of our people will attend the Williams Reunion, to be held at Miles' Grove, on next Saturday, should the weather be fair.

Runville.

The festival, which was held last Saturday evening, was largely attended.

A "tallyho" of sports from the mountain city of Snow Shoe, passed through our town Saturday morning enroute for —"They didn't know where." The little boys stopped in our village for a short time, and while here it became so cold that they donned their overcoats, and blanketed the horses, in the "Good Old Summer Time." We felt sorry for the driver as he could not be kept awake, and had to be taken home, for night air isn't good for those who drive the "water wagon." But listen, Peggy, your friends bought you a pinwheel in our city for a souvenir.

Mrs. Samuel Kennedy, of Tyrone, was the guest of Rev. Hamilton and family, the past week.

Mrs. Claude Lucas and three children, of Snow Shoe, visited their paternal home, over Sunday.

Eat Little Meat In Summer.

The amount of food devoured is IMMENSELY BEYOND any needs or demands of the physical system. The heat of the body must always be sustained at nearly 100 degrees. In summer we have only to combat a few degrees of lower temperature, but in winter by food and clothing we must raise the body heat from zero outside of us to 100 degrees above zero inside of us.

It plainly will not do to eat in summer as we do in winter, as much or of the same kind of food, if we consider heat alone.

But in summer we live, as a rule, more active lives and pass off superfluous heat with great ease and rapidity, while the surface of the body is cooled by perspiration.

It is probable that most people digest and assimilate and dispose of waste SO MUCH BETTER IN THE WARM SEASON that they eat more than in winter and ought to do so. The kind of foods used should, however, be very unlike. It is almost impossible in summer to eat too much of ripe fruits, while of meats very few should eat large amounts in warm weather.

Meat should not be cooked in summer as much as in winter.

CAPT. GREEN'S PENSION

Penna. R. R. Directors Honor Him For Long and Faithful Service.

Captain John Pugh Green, who on March 24th of this year declined re-election as First Vice-President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, has been retired from active service under the pension rules of the Company- He is 70 years of age.

Captain Green has been with the Pennsylvania 40 years, having entered its service on July 1st, 1869, as Chief Clerk to Thomas A. Scott, who at that time was First Vice-President. He has been a Vice-President of the Pennsylvania Railroad for twenty-seven years. He has been Assistant to the President for eight years prior to becoming Vice-President. In recgnition of his long and distinguished service, the Board of Directors, upon the announcement of his declination of re-election to the office of First Vice-President, adopted a minute, paying warm tribute to Captain Green.

It was with a view to keeping intact its force of employees, and to securing from them the most efficient service, that the Pennsylvania Railroad in 1900 established a system of pensions for its employes under which every man in the Company's service is retired when he reaches the age of 70 years. If he is physically disabled and has been in the Company's service for 35 years, he may be retired after attaining 65 years of age. In an article in McClure's Magazine for Decemqer, 1908, Mr. Burton J. Hendrick states that the Pennsylvania Railroad's pension system "might fairly be described as the most enlightened now in force."

The Pennsylvania Railroad employs men with the expectation that they will spend their lives in its service. It has in force a system of civil service under which men in every kind of work are advanced as opportunity offers. The Company does not employ a man unless he gives evidence of ability to advance to positions of responsibility, and it is this rule of relying upon its own ranks to supply its officers that is responsible for the wonderful esprit de corps that pervades the entire organization of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Company's system of civil service trains its men, and these men are imbued with a loyalty worth millions of doliars a year to the railroad. It was to further intensify this loyalty—which makes for efficiency more than anything else—that the Company inaugurated its pension system, under which every man in the service, from a track laborer to the President, is entitled to retire at the age of seventy years. This rule holds good, no matter how strong or alert a man may be at the age of seventy and it is the inflexibility of the rule that makes it reasonably certain that the Pennsylvania Railroad will always be managed by men at their greatest period of efficiency.

All employes of the Pennsylvania retire on relatively the same terms. For every year of service rendered the Company, they are awarded one per cent. of their average salary for the ten years immediately preceding retirement. In other words, if a man serves the Pennsylvania Railroad for fifty years and in the last ten years before retirement receives an average salary of $5,000.00 he would receive 50 per cent. of $5,000.00 or $2,500.00 every year until his death.

For the first year of its operation, the Company appropriated $390,000, for its Pension Department. In 1906, this appropriation had risen to $600,000. Up to the present, for the nine years of the operation of its pension system, the Company has paid out for this purpose $3,445,973.77. These figures indicate in a striking manner the experience of the Pennsylvania Railroad with the pension idea, and the belief of the officers of the Company in its value.

More than 2,000 employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad received pension allowances during the year 1908, the payments to them amounting to $541,101.06. A total of 367 employes were retired on pensions, while 211 men, who had been on the pension list, died. The exact number of employes receiving pensions on January 1, 1909, was 2,176. This was greater by 156 than the number on January 1, 1908.

A School for Miners.

In recent years the need of trained mining men has become more and more urgent. This has been due to the steady increase in coal production, to the growing complexity of the physical difficulties attendant upon production, and to the fact that German, Welsh, and English miners, most of whom have had experience in the mines of Europe, have been supplanted by Slavs and southern Europeans, who are as ignorant of mining as they are of the English language. In view of this pressing need, the Lehigh Valley Coal Company has opened a school which is unlike any attempted in the United States. It is situated at Lost Creek, Pa., an obscure village in the southern part of the anthracite coal region. The new institution is a practical mining school for men who actually do the work, from the foreman to the door-boy and every other person who in any way contributes to the production of anthracite. A regular instructor has been engaged by the company to take charge on certain nights every week and help the men get the greatest possible benefit out of the textbooks which the company supplies. Periodicals devoted to mining subjects are subscribed for and are kept ready for the men to read whenever they care to. From Leslie's Weekly.

TONIC IN WILD CHERRY.

Medicinal Qualities of the Bark of a Common Tree.

Doctors and drug stores are not always accessible in the country. Even so, the medicine chest in every home should contain a tonic. Most tonics are made from American medicinal books. Wild cherry bark is obtainable in nearly every part of the country. The tree range extends from Nova Scotia to Florida, westward to Texas and north through Oklahoma and in the southern portions of

WILD CHERRY TRUNK (PRUNUS SCRUTINA).

Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota. The clusters of flowers borne at the ends of leafy branches are generally somewhat drooping and consist of many small, white, five petaled flowers with numerour yellow stamens, the clusters of white against the green background making it a rather attractive tree. The cherries ripen about August or September and are globular, black or very dark purple, about the size of a pea, and have a sweet, somewhat astringent and bitter taste. The wild cherry, which is a native of this country, belongs to the plum family.

In commerce wild cherry bark is usually found in curved or irregular pieces, the outer surface smooth and somewhat shining, of a light green or brownish green color, and showing numerous transverse, light colored lines or grooves, or "lenticels," as they are technically known. The inner surface is rust colored, marked with netlike grooves, or fissures. It breaks with a short, granular fracture. The taste is aromatic, astringent and pleasantly bitter, reminding one somewhat of bitter almonds, as does the odor when the bark is soaked in water.

The bark, which is official in the United States pharmacopoeia, should be collected in autumn, as at that time it contains the greatest amount of hydrocyanic acid. The outside layer is removed, so that the green layer underneath shows, and the bark is then carefully dried and preserved. Wild cherry bark should not be kept longer than a year, as it deteriorates wtih age. The bark from very small or very old branches should not be used. Young, thin bark is considered superior. Wild cherry bark is used for its tonic properties, and it also exerts a sedative action.

To Prevent Potato Sprouting.

Consul General Richard Guenther of Frankfort reports that a German publication states that a new method for keeping potatoes and preventing sprouting consists in placing them on a layer of coke. Dr. Schiller of Brunswick, who has published the method, is of the opinion that the improved ventilation by means of coke is not alone responsible for the result, but believes that it is due to the oxidation of the coke, which, however, is a very slow one. Coke always contains sulphur, and it is very possible that the minute quantities of oxides of carbon and sulphur, which result from the oxidation, mixing with the air and penetrating among the potatoes are sufficient to greatly retard sprouting. Potatoes so treated are said to keep in good condition until the following July.

Cultivate the Apple.

Apples do not grow without something to grow from. They need more in the way of fertility than they can draw from the sky or from the tired and wornout soil. If these elements are not supplied the trees resent it by withholding their harvest.

WINDOW LIBRARY.

A Hall Bedroom Fitted Up as a Cozy Study.

A bachelor maid who is fond of books has fitted up a very satisfactory little library in her hall bedroom. She lives in a wide, old fashioned boarding house, and the one window in the bedroom, which faces southwest, has a very deep recess and is curtained by a dark buff shade. She had three stout boards cut to fit this window and covered them with inexpensive chintz in a bright but serviceable pattern. One board was laid upon the floor in the window recess, and the other two were fastened on screw held brackets at the proper height to make the second shelf and the top of the window bookcase. A rod running across the recess directly under the uppermost board held a curtain—suspended on upholstery rings—of the same chintz as that covering the boards. This curtain hid the books from dust and from the gaze of any one entering the rooms. The two deep shelves accommodated the small library, including the reference books of the bachelor maid. On top of the improvised bookcase were set a lap writing pad, box of paper, inkstand, pen tray, stamp box and a small glass jar holding pens, pencils and erasing knife. Against the side of the window frame was fastened with small brass headed nails one of the spiral card and letter racks made of silver wire, procurable for about 10 cents. The rack was trimmed with bows to match the chintz, and, with a small pocket dictionary and morocco covered address book hanging from its lowest ring by baby ribbon of the same shade, it was not only useful, but ornamental.

On the opposite side of the window recess an artistic advertising calendar was suspended.

The buff window shade was supplemented by a bonne femme curtain of silkateen harmonizing with the color scheme of the shelves and chintz and insuring privacy when the bachelor maid was making use of her window library.

FIRELESS COOKING.

Do Not Leave Things In the Box Too Long Nor Put Them In Too Soon.

In fireless cooking there are certain things to be remembered by the inexperienced cook. One is that if a dish is left indefinitely in the cooker it will sour. Soups, stews, vegetables and such things must be removed after twenty-four hours, and less in hot weather.

Another thing is that some foods require a longer time on the fire before being put in the cooker than others do. According to Harper's Bazar, cereals may take only ten minutes and tough meat half an hour. It is best to find out something about the length of time the different things require before beginning to use the cooker.

Generally speaking, all indigestible things take longer than the rest. Oatmeal, beef stew, corned beef and beans need more time than steamed puddings, rice and chicken.

A third thing to remember is this: Everything that takes a very long time to cook is improved and the process hastened if, when the time is half up and the food cooled, the pail is removed and reheated without opening it and put back again.

In all cooking, also, you must be careful not to uncover the pail with the food in it before putting it in the box. It must be kept tightly covered from the time it is put on the fire or the steam will escape and the meat or soup cool so that it cannot cook. Put everything in as quickly as possible and cover at once.

Novel Kindergarten Idea.

A clever idea for women who have small children to be taken care of was suggested recently by a contributor to Harper's Bazar. There were six women in a suburban neighborhood, all of whom had one or more small tots, all under eight years of age. Nursemaids were scarce and incompetent, and it occurred to one of the women that by combining their efforts they could arrive at a plan helpful to all. There were fifteen small children in all to be amused and looked after and kept off the street. Each mother took one afternoon when she invited all the children to her house. They came at 2 and stayed until dark. In the middle of the afternoon they had a little luncheon, each child bringing the food it was to eat, so that the diet arrangements of the different families might not be interfered with. The hostess to these tiny guests played with them, overlooked their play and took care of them generally, while the other mothers were left free to enjoy an afternoon's shopping, or a needed rest, or a club meeting, or any other business or diversion which they might elect. These particular six mothers each took one afternoon in the week, but a league of a greater or less number of women could arrange the division of time to suit themselves.

International Suffrage Flag.

The International Suffrage alliance recently adopted a standard flag of white and gold, the suffrage colors. On a white ground, between two golden stripes, are the words "Jus Suffragii" ("The Right of Suffrage"). Permission is given to any country to make the slight adaptation of having these words in its native language, if it prefers, instead of in the Latin.

Single Piece Pillowshams.

The long sham, whether made of handkerchiefs and put together with bands of insertion or of a single oblong piece of linen, are less trouble to keep in position on the pillows than the old fashioned shams in two pieces.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

DOUBTFUL BLISS.

WHILE drinking in the solitude,
Far from the haunts of men,
We rather think perhaps we'd like
To see those haunts again,
For grandeur pales when naught assails
Our eyes but gray and green
If no companion is at hand
To help enjoy the scene.

Far from the city's blare and smoke
We think we'd like to stray,
To hold communion with the skies
And while the time away,
But when we come to try it out,
To dabble in the joys,
Far, far away from any one,
We long for human noise.

When touching elbows with the crowd
We turn away and frown
If some one deigns to speak to us
Or pause to call him down,
But out upon the yellow plain,
Far from the din and roar,
We'd go a mile to speak to one
We never saw before.

When we can fill an easy chair
It's very ne to dream
About a lonely, quiet nook
Beside a sylvan stream,
But when we sit for half a day
With not a soul in view
We think we'd like to see a man
To tell our troubles to.

Tried to Do His Duty.

"Remember, you have sworn to tell the whole truth!" said the lawyer fiercely.

"Here goes, then. You are an impertinent, incompetent, overbearing"—

At this point the lawyer appealed to the court.

"Well," resumed the witness, smarting under judicial rebuke, "the whole truth is considerable, and I began in the handiest place."

Needed Help.

"How did you like that cigar?" asked the dealer in a voice that indicated his opinion of the brand to be a high one.

"Oh, in a way," replied the customer guardedly.

"It's a free drawer."

"Yes."

"Then what's the matter with it?"

"Well, I had to draw also on my imagination to like it."

Coming Call.

The fliers to the world below
Their haughty heads incline,
And very pleasantly they call:
"Come up! The air is fine!"

Knew Better.

"You say you are without funds?" said the judge.

"I haven't a cent to my name," replied the bankrupt.

"Ju'ge," said the lady creditor, "he is trying to deceive you. I saw on his desk a check book, and half of the checks had not been used."

Looking Backward.

How dear to my heart are the feastings of childhood,
The light, flaky biscuits that dear mother made,
When coming in fresh from the meadow or wildwood
We rushed without mercy the pantry to raid!
How quickly we'd grab them
And spear them or stab them
And greedily punish their crispy brown crust!
How Billy and Molly and Jimmie would eat them
Till one unaccustomed would think they would "bust!"
Good faith, there was nothing that ever could beat them,
Surpass them nor throw them the least in the shade,
Those hot, smoking biscuits,
Those light, flaky biscuits,
Those buttermilk biscuits that dear mother made.

Where He Scored.

"What would you do, Miss Ethel, if you had loads of money?"

"Oh, spend it."

"Would you?"

"Yes. What would you do if you had a lot of money?"

"I'd give it to you."

Chance to Be Generous.

"He has just ordered up the drinks for the crowd."

"I thought this was a temperance town."

"That is why he is in such a hurry. They only sell five cent drinks."

The Fan.

Fans were used as sacred emblems in India.

The Romans used a circular fan on occasions of state.

The early Greeks made fans of the flat leaves of the lotus.

The Chinese and Japanese have from antiquity used fans of all possible varieties.

In ancient Egypt fans of strange shape made of parchment or feathers were used in religious ceremonies.

Folding fans had their origin in Japan and were imported thence to China. They were of the shape still used.

KING EDWARD'S SUMMER DIET.

Horace Fletcher, the food scientist and dietary reformer, brings from Europe the news that King Edward of England has adopted his ideas on eating as a means of combating the summer heat.

"It is wonderful," he said, "the change which has occurred in Europe, and especially in England, in the past six or seven years regarding summer diet.

"I found that everybody is dieting today. King Edward is the strictest of them all.

"His majesty today eats only the simplest of food and just enough of that for health. He abstains largely from fatty meats and starchy foods and holds to a diet chiefly of vegetable foods, which do not heat the blood."

When asked what his meals cost in summer Mr. Fletcher consulted his expense book and stated that HIS FOOD FOR THE PAST FIVE DAYS HAD COST HIM $3.08. It consisted of twenty-six quarts of milk, $2.08, and twenty boxes of crackers, $1. This expenditure, he stated, provides food for two grown persons and two meals for five hungry children. King Edward sometimes follows this diet, he says. According to Fletcher, THE IDEAL FOOD FOR THE HOT WEATHER IS MILK AND CRACKERS, and he declared further that a healthy laboring man could supply himself with plenty of good, nourishing food for 11 cents a day.

HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES.

White pepper will be found preferable to black in seasoning chicken soup.

For cleaning down stairs a stiff plain brush is better than a whisk broom.

A few chopped almonds added to a custard or bread pudding will greatly improve its flavor.

A cereal pan is much more easily cleaned if cold water is allowed to run in it as soon as the cereal is removed. Hot water hardens the mixture.

Canvas shoes may be cleaned with soap and water if one works quickly, so that the moisture does not penetrate the canvas. Make a thick lather with pure white soap and warm water.

To clean white marble, wash it thoroughly with soap and water, then brush it over well, especially in the crevices, with whiting mixed with a little blue as used for ceilings. Allow it to dry thoroughly and then polish with a clean, dry cloth.

To clean suede gloves put the gloves on "trees" or on your hands and rub them well with fine oatmeal, which should finally be brushed off with a soft nailbrush. Any obstinate stains may be removed with benzine applied on a piece of clean flannel.

If you find the hardwood floor is sticky after being treated with the usual preparation of boiled oil and turpentine, get a pail of strong cider vinegar, wring a cloth out of this, and wipe the floor with the strong acid. It will improve it in a short time.

The Pesky Fly.

The pesky fly now makes you swear by crawling, crawling everywhere, says an exchange. He wipes his feet upon the bread and creeps about your hairless head. Within the milk he takes a bath and in the butter makes a path, and then he angers Mary Jane by specking up the window pane, and mamma yells and baby squirms because he leaves those awful germs. Get out the sticky paper, quick, and make him goshamighty sick!

Alcohol For Veils.

Some persons keep their veils in condition by dipping them in alcohol several times and then hanging up indoors to dry. The alcohol gives the veil a desirable stiffness, which will add to its days of usefulness.

Loose Corsets In Summer.

It is very important, especially in summer, that women should NOT WEAR THEIR CORSETS TOO TIGHT. A tight corset interferes with the circulation and affects the heart.

How to Kill Flies.

A good fly poison not dangerous to human life is a solution of bichromate of potash, one dram dissolved in two ounces of water and sweetened with a little sugar. Put some in shallow dishes and place throughout the house. Flies are no more dangerous now than they always have been, but the occasional mysterious occurrence and SPREAD OF COMMUNICABLE DISEASES have now been charged to their account.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold.

A. S. Nusbaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success." Sold by C. M. Parrish.

Kodol

For Dyspepsia and Indigestion

If you Suffer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Belching, Sour Stomach, Heart-burn, etc., a little Kodol will Relieve you almost Instantly

Kodol supplies the same digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach. Being a liquid, it starts digestion at once.

Kodol not only digests your food, but helps you enjoy every mouthful you eat.

You need a sufficient amount of good, wholesome food to maintain strength and health.

But, this food must be digested thoroughly, otherwise the pains of indigestion and dyspepsia are the result.

When your stomach cannot do its work properly, take something to help your stomach. Kodol is the only thing that will give the stomach complete rest.

Why? Because Kodol does the same work as a strong stomach, and does it in a natural way.

So, don't neglect your stomach. Don't become a chronic dyspeptic. Keep your stomach healthy and strong by taking a little Kodol. You don't have to take Kodol all the time. You only take it when you need it.

Kodol is perfectly harmless.

TROLLEY ORDINANCE

Presented at Meeting of Councils on Monday; Action Deferred.

The project of constructing a street car line from Milesburg to State College was formally brought to the attention of Bellefonte Councils, on Monday night, by the presentation of an ordinance granting a franchise to the Centre County Traction Co., for the use of certain streets in this place. Action on the ordinance was deferred until the next meeting, two weeks hence. The ordinance was referred to the Street Committee.

J. C. Meyer, representing the Pittsburg capitalists, said to be behind the project appeared and read the ordinance. He declared that the men interested in the matter were fully able to finance the proposed line.

The route of the proposed line, as set forth in the ordinance, is from Milesburg along the Central Railroad tracks, to the Central Railroad station, thence along South Water Street, to High Street, up High Street to the Court House, down Allegheny Street to Bishop, along Bishop to Spring, down Spring to High, from High to Water, to Mill Street and thence to the pike, following that highway to State College, via Pleasant Gap.

Councils instructed Borough Solicitor Mitchell to draft an ordinance prohibiting the use of fireworks within the borough limits.

A petition from the County Commissioners for authority to remove a part of the new cement sidewalk, on either side of the Court House, was referred to the Street Committee. These walks must be partly removed in making the proposed improvements to the Court House. Before adjourning Councils approved bills amounting to $373.52.

Tressler Reunion.

The second annual reunion of the Tressler connection was held on Friday, the 13th, at the Bellefonte fair grounds, and was attended by quite a number of relatives and friends. About 125 were present. All enjoyed the occasion, being glad to meet with friends with whom some of them had never met before. Relatives were present from Northumberland, Blair and Centre counties. After dinner was served a hymn was sung, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," and prayer offered by C. C. Tressler, of Mahanoy City, after which the minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, J. L. Tressler, of Linden Hall. Then came the election of officers for the ensuing year, William Tressler being elected president and the former secretary, J. A. Tressler retained.

A committee was appointed to arrange for the third annual reunion, to be held at Sunbury, who are as follows: J. P. Tressler, of Herndon; C. C. Tressler, of Northumberland County, and Ezra Tressler, of Pennsylvania Furnace.

The young people enjoyed a game of base ball in the afternoon and all enjoyed a social time together and parted with the hope of all meeting at thenext reunion.

The Williams Reunion.

The Williams' Reunion which is to be held at John I. Miles' Grove, near Martha, Saturday next, will be greater than ever. The committee on arrangements have secured the following speakers: J. C. Meyer and W. Francis Speer, of Bellefonte; Rev. Mr. Ake, of Port Matilda, and Rev. Mr. Bergen, of Petersburg. Music will be furnished by the Port Matilda cornet band, while there will be two games of base ball between Martha and Philipsburg. All kinds of refreshments will be sold on the grounds. All trains will stop at grounds. Everybody welcome,

HAIL DESTROYS CORN

Monday Night's Storm Causes Damage at Many Points.

Terrific hail storms, attending Monday night's heavy rain, caused considerable damage in some parts of Centre County, notably Martha Furnace, Port Matilda and State College. The greatest loss sustained by farmers was in the vicinity of Martha Furnace, where many acres of corn were completely ruined by the hail. Numerous gardens also were destroyed.

Versions of the extent of the hail storm at Martha Furnace, Port Matilda and other points in that part of the county are almost beyond belief. At Martha Furnace the hail, according to reports, was so thick as to completely cover the ground, and in some places to a depth of more than one inch.

At Martha Furnace the hail not only knocked down acre after acre of corn but tore the stalks into ribbons. Garden patches met with a like fate, cabbage and other vegetables being cut to shreds by the hail.

There was not so much hail in the vicinity of Port Matilda, but the rain was so heavy that it washed the sides of fields into the roads and cut deep furrows into many gardens.

Farmers report that the rain came too late to be of much benefit to the corn and potato crops, although doing much good in the way of softening the ground for plowing. In many parts of the county the corn crop, according to reports, will be about one-half the normal yield. The same condition is reported in regard to the potato crop.
